Dear Devotees of Baba Tapaswiji on his boat of Sat Kartar Beda Par

Each experience gives an opportunity to pause, reflect and contemplate the right move for next phase in life. Those who have been thorough in discipline on the path of sadhana have experienced that most of what they contemplated was right for them.

They attribute this to their daily Practices for which they promised themselves to be always particular.

Just as anyone wearing a wristwatch will always ensure that it is always working well so does a Guru – A Guru keeps watch on his loved ones to ensure that his devotees live life in a way that their karmas are always perfect.

All the practices such as Arti, ardas, bhajan, seva, truthful living, reading of scriptures from an ordinary perspective might look like just a simple routine. But when followed as a disciple unravel the beauty for right karmas in life.

Right decision, Right Karma both go together. Decisions have to be perfect. All Saints who decide for their devotees in times of their despair, decide rightly for them. When devotees follow their practices thoroughly then automatically whatever they decide is for their right- such is the power of practices in their lives.

Is a saint confused ? never ever – never because of out of strict disciple that the sainthood was achieved. Sainthood achieved was not for selfish motives but for others. A saint's sole objective is kalyana of others.

An effect of karma sometimes runs in the family for generations. Only a right Guru can save his loved ones from the wheels of karmas and that is through practices. Not only that the Guru saves his devotee but also saves all the other members of his family from their past karmas.

Slowly yet surely the practices ensures kalyana of the devotee and his entire family.

A message of the Guru is a compiled manual for right karma. For that matter an arti book or a message booklet might look like an ordinary book yet it is most bankable tool to fall on for right karmas. Going to satsangs not only saves a devotee but his entire kula (family).

To follow what a Guru has said is to see what the Guru wants to see in you. Each word is a gem, rubbie, pearl, diamond whose value can never be compared to material things of life.

Material things will come and go, people will come and go, but Guru words inscribed in your heart will ensure that there is never a frown on your face – The Guru just loves you and ensures the best for you – such is the degree of his love and care for you.

Oh yes the Guru has taken your responsibility – fully completely and there are no two ways about it !

There was a once a Guru who gave a word written on a paper to his devotee to keep always in his wallet. On the piece of paper was written "Never Worry"

On his way to the ashram the devotee one day dropped his wallet somewhere enroute to Ashram in a bus.

On reaching the ashram the devotee realized he lost his wallet and yet he smiled and did not worry – he went about with his seva schedule and caught the bus wayback for home in the evening after he completed his seva with no money to pay even for the busfare.

He explained the conductor upon boarding the return bus of his plight who smiled at him and said to continue his journey most relaxfully.

On the way somewhere at halfway of journey someone who just entered the bus and upon taking the seat started asking the conductor how to report a lost item as he had found a purse below the seat. Hearing this the devotee went to the person and was amazed to see his purse- On his way to the Ashram the devotee had dropped the purse in the bus and this was the same bus which he had boarded for the return journey - the devotee wept and wept and time gave him an opportunity to experience what his Guru had said. On the path of Guru Disciple relationship Life is an opportunity to experience what the Guru wants in a devotee !

Strange are the ways of the Guru who knows the past, present and future.

The message of the Guru is seal of success in every phase of life, is a seal of solace in times of despair, is a seal of guarantee for a worry free life, is a seal for liberation.

Be the Host (message for 2103) – Wish you and everyone in your family a Smooth 2013.
